This method had to be abandoned, however, on account of the fames gushing ten feet out of the seven front windows. No firemen was able to gain entrance this way and it was necessary to play the hose from the street into the windows. The stream had a terrific pressure and took window glass and sill and everything in it's way to reach the fames. The firemen inside stood on smouldering floors while working their hose until the water fell in such quantities that upon their departure there were several feet of water in each room.

The fire department received its call at 11:23 and was at the fire at 11:25 o'clock. The truck lost one minute crossing the Main street at Monroe on account at street car failing to stop as it shauld have done. The firemen worked their gong and siren and motioned and shouled to the motorman to hold up but he failed to stop in time. It was necessary for the bulky truck to make a sharp turn at that point to keep from striking the car and perhaps injuring many besides detaining the firemen. The East Side truck was delayed several minutes due to the horses refusing to pull the hills on the East Side.

The amount of damage has not been estimated but it will run into thousands, party covered by insurance.

Within five minutes over a thousand people had gathered to watch the progress of the flames. The crowd was amply held by Chief of Police Harr and Blaine Boggess.
